- o CCL – having just attended the CCL orientation this week I'm concerned with CCLs increased attitude of implementing fines. The focus of CCL is educating about health and safety – not the actual implementation of quality educational programs for young children. Should this be funded with education funds? This has been brought up at CDD stakeholders meetings. With CDD and NAEYC monitoring education. Should education fund health and safety? Should CCL have added capacity in education? I understand that homes, private and exempt are not Title V regulated, but maybe Title XXII and Title V should match standards, requirements and quality – the ages and ratios don't match. Title V is more stringent and better. Feel free to contact me for clarification if this looks very jumbled. (Danielle Waite: dwaite2@ucmerced.edu)
